

Guidelines for the Issuance of Short-term Accounts for the E-Journal and Database Authentication System

3. Conditions of Use

- (1) You must sign the "Written Pledge" in order to receive a short-term account.
- (2) You may not assign or lend your short-term account to another party. If your stay at Kyoto University extends beyond the period of your short-term account and you wish to continue to have access to e-journals and databases, you should submit an application form for a new short-term account to the Director General of the Kyoto University Library Network through your faculty library.
- (3) The password of the short-term account cannot be changed.
- (4) The valid period of the short-term account cannot be extended.
- (5) Access to e-journals and databases through a short-term account is available only from the campus network.
- (6) If you are suspected of using e-journals and databases in an inappropriate way, you must agree to, and comply with, an investigation by the Special Committee for the Management of the E-Journal and Database Authentication System.
- (7) If you are deemed to have used e-journals or databases inappropriately, you may be subject to measures such as the suspension of your short-term account.

Personal information on the application form will be used under Japanese laws regarding the protection of personal information and relevant Kyoto University's rules, regulations and codes. Personal information will not be used for purposes other than managing the E-Journal and Database Authentication System.
